145 HUMANITARIAN, SOCIAL IMPACT, YOUTH WELLBEING & PREVENTION PARTNER TARGETS

Humanitarian Relief • Foundations • Corporate Social Impact • Service Clubs • Anti-Bullying • Drug Prevention • Mental Health • Suicide Prevention • Professionals

Purpose: Help Student Fellows identify organizations that can strengthen the Student Impact Challenge through funding, awareness, youth leadership, humanitarian education, professional expertise, prevention resources, volunteers and community partnerships. This document intentionally distinguishes organizations that may fund programs from charities and public agencies that should generally be approached for partnership first.

Critical youth-safety rule: Fellows are outreach representatives—not counselors, clinicians, crisis workers or case managers. They must never attempt to assess, diagnose or counsel a student experiencing bullying, substance-use concerns, mental-health distress or suicidal thoughts. Outreach should seek qualified organizations, professional education and approved resources. Any immediate safety concern must be escalated through the program's designated adult/safety process and appropriate professional or emergency channels.

How Fellows Should Prioritize Outreach

Funding first: foundations and corporate social-impact teams, after checking eligibility. Local activation: Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and other service clubs for sponsorships, mentors, judges and introductions. Humanitarian nonprofits: partnership first—many are raising funds for their own missions.

Bullying/substance-use/mental-health/suicide-prevention organizations: request professional education, prevention resources, speakers and awareness partnerships rather than treating them as conventional sponsors.

Suggested Mission Language

A strong outreach frame is: “We are asking young people to do more than identify what is wrong in their communities. We are challenging them to listen, understand problems, propose solutions and participate in leaving their communities better than they found them.” Fellows should then explain why the specific organization's mission aligns with youth leadership, prevention, service or community improvement.
