The Challenge is guided by the broader philosophy: Leave It Better Than You Found It.

Corporate role	Sponsors may support program resources and approved activations but do not determine winners.

4. PROGRAM GOVERNANCE & FAIRNESS

- Winner selection should follow the official Challenge rules, eligibility standards and judging process.
- Corporate sponsorship does not provide a sponsor with authority to select or influence winners.
- Potential conflicts of interest should be identified and handled under approved program procedures.
- Judging criteria, disqualification rules and verification requirements should be documented in the official rules/handbooks.
- Material changes to awards, eligibility or judging should be reflected consistently across current official materials.

5. YOUTH SAFETY & MINOR PARTICIPATION

Because the program may involve minors, sponsor activation must be designed around appropriate consent, supervision, communications and safety controls. Corporate partners should not assume unrestricted direct access to student participants.

Area	Control Principle
Parent/guardian consent	Required where applicable under program rules and law.
Direct communications	Must follow approved program channels and youth-safety procedures.
In-person engagement	Requires approved structure, supervision and any necessary permissions.

6. PRIVACY & DATA

- Participant personal information is not sold as a sponsorship benefit.
- Any sponsor access to participant information must have a legitimate program purpose and comply with applicable consent, privacy and program requirements.
- Do not promise student, parent, school or business-owner data in a sponsorship proposal.
- Data collection should be limited to information needed to operate, measure and administer the program.
- Any third-party technology/data request should receive appropriate privacy/security review before approval.
- Current privacy policy and relevant terms should be supplied during due diligence when requested.

7. SPONSORSHIP FUNDS & USE OF FUNDS

Corporate support may fund approved program needs such as scholarships/awards, student access, educational programming, career experiences, outreach, technology, staffing, communications, measurement, reporting and other costs necessary to operate the sponsored initiative. The actual proposal and budget should identify the intended scope.

Restricted funding should be tracked and used consistently with the applicable written agreement and organizational accounting procedures.

8. CASH VS. IN-KIND SUPPORT

Category	Standard
Cash sponsorship / contribution	Record according to the organization's accounting and agreement process.
In-kind goods/services	Document separately, including description and supportable value where required.
Campaign reporting	Do not report in-kind value as cash raised.
Receipts / acknowledgment	Use appropriate organizational documentation based on the nature of the payment/support.
Tax treatment	Do not promise deductibility; sponsors should consult their own tax advisers and the organization should use appropriate documentation.

9. FINANCIAL CONTROLS — INFORMATION FOR SPONSOR REVIEW

A serious corporate due-diligence process may request information regarding budget approval, payment authorization, segregation of duties, restricted-fund tracking, banking, bookkeeping/accounting, financial statements, annual filings and internal review. Responses should be based on the organization's actual current practices and records—not generic language.

Status: Detailed financial-control representations should be completed and approved by the organization's authorized finance/governance personnel before external distribution.

10. SPONSOR REPORTING

Reporting Area	Approach
Financial / use-of-funds	As required by agreement and supported by organizational records.
Program participation	Only verified and appropriately defined figures.
Activation	Attendance, employee participation or event metrics where actually tracked.
Awards	Awards distributed according to official program records.
Digital	Program-controlled analytics where reliable.
Stories	Approved qualitative stories/testimonials with required consent.
Final report	Customized to the agreed partnership scope and available data.

- Student Impact Challenge and organizational marks should not be modified or sublicensed without approval.
- Independent editorial/media coverage is not guaranteed.
- Celebrity, public official or third-party appearances must not be promised unless specifically authorized.

- Confirm requested document is current and approved for release.
- Remove obsolete drafts and conflicting program dates.

- Assign an owner for follow-up questions from legal, finance or compliance.

16. CORPORATE DUE-DILIGENCE RESPONSE STANDARD

If a corporation asks a question the team cannot verify, the correct answer is: “We will confirm that from our official organizational records and provide the appropriate documentation.” Never guess to keep a deal moving.
